

A Royal Wedding

- Citizens: They've names the day.
All the invitations have been sent.
So let us pray
Asking that the rain gods will relent –
For Theseus the Duke – his wedding day.
- His noble bride
 Hippolyta, the queen from far away.
 She's by his side,
 Together on the royal wedding day.
 Citizens of Athens, join and sing:
- All: Theseus! Victorious! Has now returned in glory
 He has swept his enemies away.
 Theseus! The Glorious! Rejoice to hear the story.
 Now he's back to celebrate the Royal Wedding Day
- Fairies: The fairy land,
 We are here to bless this wedding too.
 Our fairy band,
 Here to send our wishes good and true.
 Wishes for prosperity and joy.
- Mechanicals: And men like us,
 We will raise a glass to bless 'em all.
 It's them and us,
 We won't be invited to the ball
 Working men of Athens we will sing:
- All: Theseus! Victorious! Has now returned in glory
 He has swept his enemies away.
 Theseus! The Glorious! Rejoice to hear the story.
 Now he's back to celebrate the Royal Wedding Day
- All: And so we say
 Citizens we'll stand as one and bless
 Your wedding day
 Together we will wish you "All the best!"
 Listen to the people, hear us sing!
- All: Theseus! Victorious! Has now returned in glory
 He has swept his enemies away.
 Theseus! The Glorious! Rejoice to hear the story.
 Now he's back to celebrate the Royal Wedding -
 (Now he's back to celebrate the Royal Wedding -)
 Now he's back to celebrate the Royal Wedding Day.
